

American Nana Productions

Austin Film Festival Reviewed Project

Ohana Inn

Genre: Workplace Comedy / Feel-Good Series Pilot

Tone: Warm, witty, and full of aloha chaos.

When an uptight mainland couple inherits the management of a failing island inn after a freak surfing accident sidelines its beloved owner, they're thrown into a world of wild employees, salty regulars, and one suspiciously smart mongoose. From duct-tape repairs to missing pineapples and UFO rumors, Ohana Inn blends quirky staff humor with island heart, proving that family isn't just who you're born with — it's who you get stranded with. With White Lotus luxury swapped for Schitt's Creek charm, this half-hour comedy celebrates imperfection, second chances, and the magic that happens when paradise goes off-script.

Style: Think Schitt's Creek meets White Lotus (but fun again).

Status: Pilot script completed and reviewed by Austin Film Festival; currently open for packaging and production interest.

“Check in for the view — stay for the chaos.”

■ AmericanNana.com | @AmericanNana | Contact → NanasHippieShack@gmail.com